COMotion Theatre School gives foundation training in the three central disciplines of performance (singing, dancing and acting) in a fun and safe environment. Our training builds self confidence, enhances creativity and performance ability.

We believe the only way a student can develop as a performer is to perform and we put on a large scale musical production each year.

The Classes

Each week the students attend two 45 minute classes back to back, one in acting and the other in musical theatre. These two classes allow us to combine the three central disciplines of performance. Within these sessions the students will learn a huge variety of performance techniques. These include: improvisation, devising, mime, singing, script work, audition technique, directing, tv and film acting, jazz, hip hop dance, street dance and much, much more.

The school fees can be paid either termly or half termly and we also offer a 10% sibling discount.

Please visit our website for exact term dates and fees.

The COMotion Principals

Jemma Starzecki trained at the Italia Conti and Sylvia Young theatre schools.

Jemma has appeared in several major film and television productions as well as receiving professional training in television presenting with accredited casting director Katharine Wolfe.

Jemma studied studio production and post production sound design at Royal Holloway University of London. Jemma's invaluable media experience adds a further dimension to the curriculum at COMotion Theatre School.

Sarah Pinkney started her training at the Carol Christian Theatre School and the Wycombe Swan Youth Theatre. She began working within a theatre school at the age of 18 teaching musical theatre at the Inside Out School of Performing Arts and then at the Pop Stars Academy. Sarah went on to study Drama and Theatre at Royal Holloway University of London and toured in a number of professional productions including an arena tour, musicals and pantomimes.

Now a full time teacher of Drama, Sarah hopes to inspire young people in the same way she was.
